No Rebels this side of the Rapidan!
ADMIRAL WILKES DISMISSED!
MORE REBEL BUTCHERY!
A FIGHT AT NEWTOWN!
ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Times special. All quiet at the front to-day. A heavy reconnaissance into the interior has developed the fact that no considerable body of rebels are this side of the Rapidan. It is believed that General Lee will not venture an offensive movement. A report prevailed that Lee is sending heavy artillery to Richmond.

There is no foundation for the rumor that Longstreet's forces are at Thoroughfare Gap. Fitzhugh Lee's division was crossing by Stewart to-day at Hampton's Crossing, below Fredericksburg. Deserters again commenced coming into our lines. At one point the average number has been eight a day for a week.

FROM WASHINGTON.
 WASHINGTON, April 26.—Special to the Herald.—It is said in high quarters that the President thinks of sending Sickles to take Banks' place.

New York, April 27.—The monitor Onondaga arrived from Hampton Roads on the 23d.

Time's Washington Special.—Gen. Foster applies for a command in the field. He will probably be assigned to a position under Burnside. Dahlgren leaves Washington in a few days to resume command of Charleston.

FROM HARPER'S FERRY.
 New York, April 26.—The Herald's Harper's Ferry dispatch reports a spirited engagement between an detachment of the 1st New York cavalry and three or four hundred rebels at Newton near Strasburg.

The World's Washington special reports the sentence of the court martial dismissal of Admiral Wilkes from service.

FROM FORTRESS MONROE.
 New York, April 27.—We learn that the steamer Greyhound has been sent up James River to City Point to order down two French steamers, and two trading vessels, there after tobacco. The vessels would be back in Hampton Roads to-day without any tobacco.

The steamer Euclid arrived to-day from Newbern Saturday evening. All quiet there. There has been no demonstration by the enemy.

FROM NEW FOUNDLAND.
 St. Johns, N. F., April 26.—First returned sealer arrived at Bay Roberts last night, with 3,500 seals. She brings word of the loss of 16 vessels. The average catch must be nearly a total failure, as over 100 vessels are jammed in the ice in Green Bay, without any seals. Seventy shipwrecked men are at Green Pond.

FROM CINCINNATI.
 CINCINNATI, April 27.—Col. Conrad Baker was nominated Lieut. Governor of Indiana to fill vacancy, caused by decline of Gen. Kimball.

Volunteering in Indiana, in compliance with the call for 20,000 hundred day men, is progressing favorably.

News from the interior of Ohio indicates national guard turned out in large force Monday. Over two thousand hales of naval prize cotton was sold at Cairo yesterday at from 71 to 73.

FROM CHATTANOOGA.
 CINCINNATI, April 27.—A special to the Gazette from Chattanooga says on the 23d the rebels attacked our pickets near Chickasaw Gap, killing five, wounding seven and capturing ninety. Some of our men were killed after surrendering. Several wounded men were butchered as they lay on the field.

FROM EUROPE.
 New York, April 27.—The City of Baltimore has arrived here. The bombardment of Dupell continues. The Danes, it was thought would probably retreat. Maximilian will probably sail the 14th for Mexico. He has made several Ministerial and Diplomatic appointments.

THE WAR IN FLORIDA.
 PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—The Engineer has the following, dated Jacksonville, Fla., 17:

The misfortunes of the Florida expedition accumulate. Night before last the steamer Hunter was destroyed by a torpedo in the St. John's, making two valuable transports lost by these infernal machines within a fortnight. The Hunter was loaded with quartermaster's stores and was bound to Pensacola, forty miles above here, where we have a brigade of cavalry and troops. Singular enough, the Hunter was blown up exactly about 11 miles from the 3d of the month.

Fortunately the loss of this in this last disaster was small, only one person, a quartermaster, being lost. The steamer was a very valuable one, having been built for Maj. Gen. Hunter two years ago, and was the fastest transport in this department. She was of 350 tons, and was valued at the time of her loss a $60,000. She was chartered to the Government, and was owned in New York.

From the most reliable sources of information to be obtained at headquarters and elsewhere, there is no doubt of the Confederate army in our front being large; quite as formidable as at any time since the expedition first landed in the State. They have from eight to ten thousand infantry, and four thousand cavalry, with in a dozen miles of here, and another large camp at Baldwin, at the junction of the Florida Central and Fernandina and Cedar Keys railroad. It was supposed that the pending campaign in Virginia would draw this force to the North, but such is not the fact. The rebels must have much larger armies in the field than we credit them, or clearly consider Florida immensely valuable to them.

The withdrawal of so many troops from Florida has led to the abandonment of Pinaloa as a federal outpost. All the troops stationed there were withdrawn last week. The guns in the redoubts were brought off the abatis destroyed, as also the signal-tower and everything else of value to the rebels. Several families, of Union sentiments, came away with the troops, fearing to remain after the abandonment of the place. The policy of occupying posts in the Confederacy, persuading the inhabitants to take the oath of allegiance, and then leaving them to rebel merely, is rather questionable.

Janesville Daily Gazette.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 27, 1864.

The Quiet on the Potomac.

There is an ominous silence brooding over the Army of the Potomac. Our news from that quarter is as barren as is itself. We are not permitted to receive even that old, stale, beggarly morsel of oft-repeated gossip that used to come over the wires daily in McCallen's time. "All quiet on the Potomac." About all we know of affairs in the vicinity of the Rapidan is, that Grant has gone to the front and stopped the mails behind him, and that Lee has been reinforced by Longstreet. So much looks like business. Beyond that we know very little of present movements or intentions of our leaders. But there are a few facts connected with our grand army under Grant and Meade that may be stated without detriment to the cause which every patriot has sincerely at heart, and without benefiting our enemies by their statement.

It is an undeniable fact, and a most pleasing one to contemplate, that for once there is entire harmony and confidence existing between General Grant and his subordinates in command, as well as between himself and the powers that be at Washington. The position which General Grant now holds at the head of the largest army in the world, was not sought by him, but he was sought by it, and we know that his plans and opinions have the warmest sanction of the President and Secretary of War. There has, also, been a liberal vouching out of those jealous, narrow-minded officers of the Fitz John Porter school, who would rather see the Federal armies defeated a thousand times, than that a rival officer should achieve a victory for our flag, and honor and distinction for himself at the same time. This jealousy among officers has been fatal to the Army of the Potomac, and has nearly ruined the country as well. The people may now rest assured that under his present organization no more battles will be lost or divisions butchered from this shameful cause. There is not only harmony and union among the officers of General Grant's army, but there is the most abiding confidence and faith among the rank and file in the military skill and ability of him who has been placed at their head. To an army which has been McCallenized and trifled with by having incompetent and unsuccessful commanders placed over it, the prestige of such a name as Grant's and the renown and distinction that he has won on the well-contested fields of Fort Donelson, Pittsburg Landing and Vicksburg, cannot be over-estimated. They are now sanguine of success. They feel assured that the victory which has so often been within their reach, and yet, like the will-o'-the-wisp, has somehow ever eluded their grasp, will be secured to them before the sheaves are gathered together again in the coming harvest, and that they will be enabled, under God, to give to this long-suffering nation the substantial fruits of a success that will bring peace, though the seed time of death must first precede the harvest of victory.

The Army of the Potomac is in splendid condition, and is composed of the best material that can be found on the American continent. Every man in it is a veteran, injured to the severest service, and hardened in the fiery furnace of more well-contested battles than ever fell to the lot of soldiers since the great Napoleon made his famous Russian campaign. They are not only perfect in drill and possess all the will and iron hardihood which their long experience and training in the art of war has given them, but they have something more and something better. These soldiers are American citizens, and are thoroughly imbued with all that personal bravery and love of country that constitutes the hero and the patriot. In the long intervals between their well-fought battles, by the camp fires wherever their tents have been pitched, they have discussed all the issues involved in, and growing out of this unholy strife, and have weighed and considered them in all their bearings, not as partisans and politicians, but with the candor and seriousness of freemen, who may almost be said to read their conclusions by the light of eternity, as they know not what moment the long roll may call them to follow the red pathway of duty that leads to the cannon's mouth. They thoroughly understand what they are fighting for, and mean to conquer or die. Such an army, under the leadership of skillful and experienced Generals, and animated by a love of country and liberty, is as invincible as the band of Spartans that guarded the pass of Thermopylae. And while they do not despise or underrate the prowess of those misguided men whom they will soon meet in deadly conflict, they are eager for the fray which, they earnestly believe, will prove their superior fighting qualities over their enemies and the annals of mankind.

And the country waits with serene patience the results of this terrible conflict, resolved to accept its consequences, whatever they may be, with the calmness and resignation that becomes an enlightened and Christian people.

A GALLANT YOUNG HERO.—Col. Bartlett has this week gone to the field at the head of the Fifty-fourth Massachusetts regiment. In 1861, Col. Bartlett was a student in college. But he "had heard of battles, and he longed to follow to the field some warlike lord," and so enlisted as a private in the Twentieth Massachusetts. He soon reached a captaincy; was a hero at Edwars's Ferry; lost a leg at Yorktown; got a wooden leg and joined his regiment at Fort Hudson, where he was shot through the wrist and foot; returned home, got well and raised another regiment, and now goes to battle, to die, if needs be. He is only 24 years of age.

A new plan of ascertaining the strength of convalescent soldiers in the hospitals, is to establish ten pin alleys for their amusement, and then send to their regiments all those who can make strings of a hundred and fifty or upwards.

XXVIII Congress.—First Session.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Mr. Washburne, from the Committee on Commerce, reported a bill to create an additional supervisory inspector of steamboats, his duties to be confined to New Orleans; and also to create boards of local inspectors at Portland, Oregon; and at Memphis, Tenn.

The board of inspection at Wheeling is discontinued, for the reason that there are two other boards of inspection for the Ohio river. The bill may pass.

Mr. Hilly of California, from a select committee to examine into Representative McCallen's charge that his colleague, Mr. Blair, of Mo., had violated the law in an alleged liquor speculation, and also to investigate the genuineness or falseness of an alleged order for liquors, made a report thereon to the effect that the original order, signed by Mr. Maj. Gen. Blair, and eight other officers, was for liquors, cigars, &c., to the amount of $150 or $175, but that the order was altered by Michael Powers, to call for $5,000 worth of the same, for the latter's (Powers') speculative purposes. The committee are satisfied that no violation of law was committed by Mr. Blair.

Mr. Blair, of Missouri, spoke of his intention soon to take leave of the House. He said the charges against him were made while in military command and circulated against him because he was opposed to the trade regulations of Secretary Chase, and differed from the plan of Mr. Chase to let the Southern States go. His colleague (McCallen) had shown the consciousness and brutality that characterizes low and vulgar minds.

The Speaker called Mr. Blair to order, reminding him that personalities must not be indulged in.

Mr. Blair begged the pardon of the speaker. His colleague (McCallen) had gone to the trouble of having him called the forged orders photographed. He (Blair) intended to follow out the hint and have those orders ornamented with the portrait of his colleague (McCallen) after the manner of the rogues galleries. The dogs and hounds had been set on him by the speaker. He (Blair) had driven those dogs and hounds back into their kennel, and he intended to hold their master responsible.

Mr. Blair read from letters to show the distinction of Secretary Chase's trade regulations, stating that large quantities of goods passed through our lines to the enemy. The letters also say that Secretary Chase is using his powers for electioneering purposes, and Mr. Blair added, to oppose President Lincoln who gave Secretary Chase his place.

Mr. McCallen said if it were the pleasure of the House he would postpone his remarks until the tax bill shall be disposed of. He believed the member's (Blair's) character, if he had any, would not suffer by the delay, and he was sure his own would not. He gave way to Mr. Morrill, who moved that the House resolve itself into a committee of the whole on the tax bill, which prevailed.

Australian Climate.

Night in Australia! How impossible to describe its beauty! Heaven seemed, in that new world, so much nearer to earth! Every star stands out so bright and particular, as if fresh from the time when the Maker willed it. And the moon, like a large silvery coin—the least objection to which is, it shines so distinct and so still. "I have frequently," said Mr. Wilkinson, in his work on South Australia, "been on a journey on such a night, and while allowing my horse his own time to walk along the road, have solaced myself by reading in the still moonlight." Now and then a sound breaks the silence, but a sound so much in harmony with the solitude that it only deepens its charms. Hark! the low cry of the night bird from yonder glen, amid the small grey, gleamy rocks. Hark! as the night deepens, the bark of the distant watch-dog, or the low, strange howl of his more savage species from which he defends the fold. Hark! the echo catches the sound and flings it sportingly from hill to hill—farther and farther down, till again it is hushed, and the flowers hang noiselessly over your head, as you ride through a grove of giant gum trees. Now the air is literally charged with odors, and the sense grows almost painful in its pleasure. You quicken your pace and again escape into the open plains and the moonlight, enjoy the exquisite loveliness of the landscape, and through the slender tree trunks catch a gleam of the river and hear the soothing sound of its gentle murmur.

NUMBER OF REBEL PRISONERS CAPTURED DURING THE WAR.

A special Washington dispatch to the Springfield Republican says: "The report of the Commissary General of prisoners, accompanying the Secretary of War's report, has just been published. It shows that the number of rebel officers and men captured by us since the beginning of the war is 1 Lieutenant general, 5 major generals, 25 brigadier generals, 180 colonels, 140 lieutenant colonels, 244 majors, 2,497 captains, 5,811 lieutenants, 15,563 non-commissioned officers, 121,136 privates, and 5,800 citizens. Of these we had on hand at the date of the report 29,223 officers and men, among whom were 20 major generals and seven brigadiers. "There have been 121,937 rebels exchanged against 110,806 Union men returned. The exchanges of officers on both sides are computed at their exchangeable value in privates. Since the date of the above report there have been less than one thousand exchanges, and very few captures on either side. The figures are consequently approximately correct. No statement has been furnished to our Government of the number of prisoners held by the rebels."

ARMY PENCANT FOR NEWSPAPERS.

George Augustus Sala says, in his last letter to the London Telegraph: "The American soldiers console themselves for their enforced abstinence by sucking any quantity of tobacco, by smoking any number of pipes, and by reading any number of newspapers. The consumption of journalism in the Federal armies is tremendous, and the perusal of newspapers appears to yield the men unceasing and unalloyed delight. I have heard that on the battle-field of Antietam, in the intervals of the bloodiest charges, the rowdy little newsmen would come scampering along the ensanguined ranks, crying 'extras' of the New York papers. It is certain that you can scarcely pass a soldier's tent in this great camp without finding one or more of the occupants intent on the study of the printed sheets which are vomited forth every morning by the New York press."

The Massacre at Fort Pillow.—The Philadelphia Press says: A few more such victories as that of Fort Pillow and the rebellion is ruined. It is too weak to endure the shock of such a triumph, nor is there any civilized people which will not turn with aversion from a despotism which in the frenzy of failure turns war into butchery, and permits its soldiers to murder their prisoners.

For Idaho. On Wednesday last, the Messrs. S. P. and R. C. Laird, Olmsted Dunn, North and Itman, left town for the gold fields of Idaho.—Broadhead Independent.

Words for Poor Boys.

When I was a boy of twelve years, I was working for twenty-five cents a week, with an old lady, and had my hands full, but I did my work faithfully. I used to cut wood, fetch water, make fires, scrub the floor in the morning for the old lady, before the real work of the day commenced. My clothes were bad, and I had no means of buying shoes, so I was often barefooted. One morning I got through my work early, and the old lady, who thought I had not done it, or was especially ill-humored then, was displeased, scolded me, and said I was idle and had not worked. I said I had; she called me a liar. I felt my spirit rise indignantly against this, and, standing erect, I told her that she should never have the chance of applying that word to me again. I valued my house to re-enter it no more. I had not a cent in my pocket when I stepped into the world. What do you think I did then, boys? I met a countryman, with a team. I addressed him boldly and earnestly, and offered to drive the leader, if he would only take me on. He looked at me in surprise, but said he did not think I'd be of any use to him. "O yes, I will," said I, "I can rub down and wash your horses, and do many things for you, if you will only let me try." He no longer objected. I got on, the horse's back. It was hard traveling, for the roads were deep, and we could only get on at the rate of twelve miles per day. This was however, my starting point. I went ahead after this. An independent spirit, and a steady, honest conduct, with vibrant capacity God has given me—as he has given you—have carried me successfully through the world.

Don't be down-hearted by being poor, and having no friends. Fry and try again. You can cut your way through, if you live, so please God. I know it's a hard time for some of you. You are often hungry and wet with the rain or snow, and it seems dreary to have no one in the city to care for you. But trust in Christ and he will be your friend. Keep up good heart, and be determined to make your way honestly and truly through the world. As I said I feel for you, because I have gone through it all—I know what it is. God bless you.—General Mitchell.

MALIGNITY OF SOUTHERN TREASON.

There are some people who still affect to believe that the rebels are "willing, if they have done wrong, to be forgiven." The Copperheads are always asserting that "fraternal war" can be stopped by negotiation with the leaders. We extract from the Richmond Dispatch of the 19th ult., the following difficulties in the way of reconstruction, on any basis that Peace Democrats may propose:

"No one, however knows better than Abraham Lincoln that any terms he might offer the Southern people which contemplate their restoration to his bloody and brutal government would be rejected with scorn and execration. If, instead of devoting to death our President and military and civil officers, he had proposed to make Jeff. Davis his successor, Lee Commander-in-Chief of the Yankee armies, and our domestic institution not only recognized at home, but re-admitted in the free States, provided the South would once more enter the Yankee Union, there is not a man, woman or child in the Confederacy who would not spit upon the proposition. We desire no companionship, upon any terms, with a nation of robbers and murderers. The miscreants, whose atrocities in this war have caused the whole civilized world to shudder, must keep henceforth their distance. They shall not be our masters, and we would not have them for our slaves."

INSURE WITH THE MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY OF WISCONSIN.

IT IS THE BEST COMPANY FOR WESTERN MEN!—The reasons why this is the best Company, are: That it is a Western Company, made up of and managed by Western men, doing all or nearly all its business in the Northwest, and concentrating in this one Company a superior class of risks, mostly of young men, or men in the prime of life, and they selected with as great care in regard to eligibility to Life Insurance, as are the risks of any other company.

It is true that the Company has neither the age nor the accumulations of some eastern companies, but is gaining the latter very fast; is vigorous for one of its age; is doing a large business, having issued 637 policies in the months of December and January just passed, and is doing its business as economically as the same can be done anywhere. It has for its guide, the experience of all older companies, and among its managers some of the best business men in the northwest.

This is the first successful effort ever made to build up a similar institution in the West, and it should be the pride, as it certainly is the interest, of every business man in this section of the State, to identify himself with its growth.

This Company issues non-forfeiting policies, upon which premiums are paid in five or ten annual payments. These non-forfeiting policies are very desirable, as they guarantee to the policy holder the benefit of all the money that he pays into the Company, and also enable him to pay his premiums for the whole of life while he is young, or at an early period, thus relieving him from the burden of payment in old age. Insurance upon this plan, (as well as on all other policies that this Company issues) become due and payable at death, should death occur before the ten years expire.

It also issues the endowment policy which becomes due and payable to the party assured at a stated age specified. These latter policies are becoming quite popular, and are particularly desirable for young men.

COUGHS AND COLDS.

The sudden change of our climate are sources of Croup, Whooping Cough, and other Affections. Experience having proved that simple remedies often act speedily when taken in the early stages of the disease, recourse should at once be had to "Brown's Bronchial Trochets," or Lozenges, let the Cough, or Irritation of the Throat be ever so slight, as by this precaution a more serious attack may be effectually ward off. PUFFERS SPEAKERS and SINGERS will find them effectual for clearing and strengthening the voice. Soldiers should have them, as they can be carried in the pocket and taken on occasion required. J. H. HAIR DYE! HAIR DYE!

BACHMAN'S CELEBRATED HAIR DYE is the best in the world! The only Hair Dye, True and Reliable Dye known. This splendid Hair Dye is perfect—changes Red, Rusty, or Grey Hair, instantly to a Glossy Black or Natural Brown, without injuring the hair or staining the skin, leaving the hair soft and beautiful, imparting fresh vitality, frequently restoring its pristine color, and rectifies the ill effects of bad Dyes. The genuine is signed WILLIAM A. BACHMAN, all others are mere imitations, and should be avoided. Sold by all Druggists, &c. Factory—St. Raphael St., N. Y. BACHMAN'S NEW TOILET CREAM for Dressing the Hair. J. H. CAMP, Druggist.

HEIMSTREET'S INIMITABLE HAIR RESTORATIVE.

It is not a DYE, but restores gray hair to its original color, by supplying the capillary tubes with natural coloration impaired by age or disease. All instantaneous dyes are composed of harsh acids, destroying the vitality and texture of the hair, and effecting its premature falling out. Heimstreet's Inimitable Coloring not only restores hair to its natural color by an easy process, but gives the hair a luxuriant beauty, promotes its growth, prevents its falling off, eradicates dandruff, and imparts health and pleasantness to the head. It has stood the test of time being the original hair coloring, and is constantly increasing in favor. Used by both gentlemen and ladies. It is sold by all respectable dealers, or can be procured by them of the commercial agents, D. S. HARNES & CO., 202 Broadway, New York. Two sizes, 50 cents and $1. J. H. CAMP, Druggist.

WYNKOOP'S ICELAND PECTORAL.

Diseases of the Throat, Chest, and Pulmonary Organs are ever prevalent, insidious and dangerous. The properties of a medicine to alleviate, cure, and protect these complaints, must be expectorant, anodyne and invigorating, loosening the mucus of the throat, and imparting tone to the entire system. No discovery in medical science ever effected this class of diseases like Dr. Wynkoop's Iceland Pectoral. It is used with the most astonishing results in all cases of Bronchitis, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Diphtheria or Pertussis Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, Coughs, Colds, Nervous Irritability, &c.

The Rev. J. J. FORTY certifies—"that I have used Dr. Wynkoop's Pectoral for several years, myself and in my family, for severe pulmonary complaints, and have recommended it to many others, and have never seen its equal." Rev. J. J. FORTY, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Hundreds and thousands of important testimonials could be produced, attesting its remarkable cures and that it never fails.

It is composed of pure Iceland Moss, Balm of Gilead, Peruvian Balsam, Sassafras, Comfrey, Burdock, and other invaluable expectorant and tonic ingredients. It is harmless, prompt and lasting. Invalids and sufferers cannot afford to neglect a trial. Every family should have it. It is remarkable for Croup. Full descriptions, recommendations and directions accompany each bottle.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 27, 1864.

The Quiet on the Potomac.

There is an ominous silence brooding over the Army of the Potomac. Our news from that quarter is as barren as it is brief. We are not permitted to receive even that old, stale, beggarly morsel of "repeated gossip" that used to come over the wires daily in McClellan's time. "All quiet on the Potomac." About all we know of affairs in the vicinity of the Rapidan is, that Grant has gone to the front and stopped the mails behind him, and that Lee has been reinforced by Longstreet. So much looks like business. Beyond that we know very little of present movements or intentions of our leaders. But there are a few facts connected with our grand army under Grant and Meade that may be stated without detriment to the cause which every patriot has sincerely at heart, and without benefitting our enemies by their statement.

It is an undeniable fact, and a most pleasing one to contemplate, that for once there is entire harmony and confidence existing between General Grant and his subordinates in command, as well as between himself and the powers that be at Washington. The position which General Grant now holds at the head of the largest army in the world, was not sought by him, but he was sought by it, and we know that his plans and opinions have the warmest sanction of the President and Secretary of War. There has, also, been a liberal weeding out of those jealous, narrow-minded officers of the Fitz John Porter school, who would rather see the Federal armies defeated a thousand times, than that a rival officer should achieve a victory for our flag, and honor and distinction for himself at the same time. This jealousy among officers has been fatal to the Army of the Potomac, and has nearly ruined the country as well. The people may now rest assured that under its present organization no more battles will be lost or divisions butchered from this shameful cause. There is not only harmony and union among the officers of General Grant's army, but there is the most abiding confidence and faith among the rank and file in the military skill and ability of him who has been placed at their head. To an army that has been McClellanized and trifled with by having incompetent and unsuccessful commanders placed over it, the prestige of such a name as Grant's and the renown and distinction that he has won on the well-contested fields of Fort Donelson, Pittsburg Landing and Vicksburg, cannot be over-estimated. They are now sanguine of success. They feel assured that the victory which has so often been within their reach, and yet, like the will-o'-the-wisp, has somehow eluded their grasp, will be secured to them before the harvest are gathered together again in the coming autumn, and that they will be enabled, under God, to give to this long-suffering nation the substantial fruits of a success that will bring peace, though the seed time of death must first precede the harvest of victory.

The Army of the Potomac is in splendid condition, and is composed of the best material that can be found on the American continent. Every man in it is a veteran, inured to the severest service, and hardened in the fiery furnace of more well-contested battles than ever fell to the lot of soldiers since the great Napoleon made his famous Russian campaign. They are not only perfect in drill and possess all the will and iron hardihood which their long experience and training in the art of war has given them, but they have something more and something better. These soldiers are American citizens, and are thoroughly imbued with all that personal bravery and love of country that constitutes the hero and the patriot. In the long intervals between their well-fought battles, by the camp fires wherever their tents have been pitched, they have discussed all the issues involved in, and growing out of this unholy strife, and have weighed and considered them in all their bearings, not as partisans and politicians, but with the candor and seriousness of freemen, who may almost be said to read their conclusions by the light of eternity, as they know not what moment the long roll may call them to follow the red pathway of duty that leads to the cannon's mouth. They thoroughly understand what they are fighting for, and mean to conquer or die. Such an army, under the leadership of skillful and experienced Generals, and animated by a love of country and liberty, is as invincible as the band of Spartans that guarded the pass of Thermopylae. And while they do not despise or underrate the prowess of those misguided men whom they will soon meet in deadly conflict, they are eager for the fray which, they earnestly believe, will prove their superior fighting qualities over their enemies and the enemies of mankind.

And the country waits, with serene patience the results of this terrible conflict, resolved to accept its consequences, whatever they may be, with the calmness and resignation that becomes an enlightened and Christian people.

A GALLANT YOUNG HERO.—Col. Bartlett has this week gone to the field at the head of the Fifty-fourth Massachusetts regiment. In 1861, Col. Bartlett was a student in college. But he "had heard of battles, and he longed to follow to the field, some warlike lord," and so enlisted as a private in the Twentieth Massachusetts. He soon reached a captaincy; was a hero at Edward's Ferry; lost a leg at Yorktown; got a wooden leg and joined his regiment at Port Hudson, where he was shot through the wrist and foot; returned home, got well and raised another regiment, and now goes to battle, if it needs be. He is only 24 years of age.

A new plan of ascertaining the strength of our soldiers in the hospitals, is to establish ten pin alleys for their amusement, and then send to their regiments all those who can make strings of a hundred and fifty or upwards.

XXVIII Congress—First Session.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Mr. Washburne, from the Committee on Commerce, reported a bill to create an additional supervisory inspector of steamboats, his duties to be confined to New Orleans, and also to create boards of local inspectors at Portland, Me., and at Memphis, Tenn. The board of inspection at Wheeling, Ohio, was also mentioned. The bill was passed.

Mr. Hays, of California, from a select committee to examine into Representative McClure's charge that his colleague, Mr. Blair, of Mo., had violated the law in an alleged liquor speculation, and also to investigate the genuineness or falseness of an alleged order for liquors, made a report thereon to the effect that the original order, signed by Mr. Maj. Gen. Blair, and eight other officers, was for liquors, cigars, &c., to the amount of $150 or $175, but that the order was altered by Michael Powers, to call for $3,000 worth of the same, for the latter's (Powers') speculative purposes. The committee are satisfied that no violation of law was committed by Mr. Blair.

Mr. Blair, of Missouri, spoke of his intention soon to take leave of the House. He said the charges against him were made while in military command and circulated against him because he was opposed to the trade regulations of Secretary Chase, and differed from the plan of Mr. Chase to let the Southern States go. His colleague (McClure) had shown the consensus and brutality that characterize low vulgar minds.

The Speaker called Mr. Blair to order, reminding him that personalities must not be indulged in.

Mr. Blair begged the pardon of the speaker. His colleague (McClure) had gone to the trouble of having what he called the forged orders photographed. He (Blair) intended to follow out the hint and have those orders ornamented with the portrait of his colleague (McClure) after the manner of the rogues galleries. The dogs and hounds had been set on him by their master. He (Blair) had driven those dogs and hounds back into their kennel, and he intended to hold their masters responsible.

Mr. Blair read from letters to show the distinction of Secretary Chase's trade regulations, stating that large quantities of goods passed through our lines to the enemy. He also said that Secretary Chase is using his powers for electioneering purposes, and Mr. Blair added, to oppose President Lincoln, who gave Secretary Chase his place.

Mr. McClure said if it were the pleasure of the House he would postpone his remarks until the tax bill shall be disposed of. He believed the member's (Blair's) character, if he had any, would not suffer by the delay, and he was sure his own would not. He gave way to Mr. Morrill, who moved that the House resolve itself into a committee of the whole on the tax bill, which prevailed.

AUSTRALIAN CLIMATE.

Night in Australia! How impossible to describe its beauty! Heaven seemed, in that new world, so much nearer to earth! Every star stands out so bright and particular, as if fresh from the time when the Maker willed it. And the moon, like a large silvery sun—the least objection to which, is, it shines so distinct and so still.

"I have frequently," said Mr. Wilkinson, in his work on South Australia, "been on a journey in the night, and when I saw my horse his own time to walk along the road, how soiled, my eyes by reading in the still moonlight." Now and then a sound breaks the silence, but a sound so much in harmony with the solitude that it only deepens its charms. Hark! the low cry of the night bird from yonder glen, amid the small grey, gleamy rocks. Hark! as the night deepens, the bark of the distant watch-dog, or the low, strange howl of his more savage species from which he defends the fold. Hark! the echo catches the sound and flings it sportfully from hill to hill—farther and farther down, till again it is hushed, and the flowers hang noisily over your head, as you ride through a grove of giant gum trees. Now the air is literally charged with odors, and the sense grows almost painful in its pleasure. You quicken your pace and again escape into the open plains and the full moonlight, enjoy the exquisite beauty of the atmosphere, and though the slender trees catch a gleam of the river and hear the soothing sound of its gentle murmur.

NUMBER OF REBEL PRISONERS CAPTURED DURING THE WAR.—A special Washington dispatch to the Springfield Republican says:

"The report of the Commissary General of prisoners, accompanying the Secretary of War's report, has just been published. It shows that the number of rebel officers and men captured by us since the beginning of the war is 1 Lieutenant general, 5 major generals, 2 brigadier generals, 180 colonels, 146 lieutenant colonels, 244 majors, 2,497 captains, 5,311 lieutenants, 15,363 non-commissioned officers, 121,100 privates, and 5,500 citizens. Of these were on hand at the date of the report 29,220 officers and men, among whom were one major general and seven brigadiers."

"There have been 121,937 rebels exchanged against 110,866 Union men returned. The exchanges of officers on both sides are computed at their exchangeable value in privates. Since the date of the above report there have been less than one thousand exchanges, and very few captures on either side. The figures are consequently approximately correct. No statement has been furnished to our Government of the number of prisoners held by the rebels."

ARMY PENDING FOR NEWSPAPERS.—

George Augustus Sala says, in his last letter to the London Telegraph:

"The American soldiers console themselves for their enforced abstinence by sucking any quantity of lozenges, by chewing any number of quids, and by reading any number of newspapers. The consumption of journalism in the Federal armies is tremendous, and the personal of newspapers appears to yield the men an unceasing and unalloyed delight. I have heard that on the battle-field of Antietam, in the intervals of the bloodiest charges, the rowdy little newsboys would come scampering along the ensanguined ranks, crying 'extras' of the New York papers. It is certain that you can scarcely pass a soldier's tent in this great camp without finding one or more of the occupants intent on the study of the printed sheets which are vomited forth every morning by the New York press."

THE MASSACRE AT FORT PILLER.—The Philadelphia Press says: A few more such victories as that of Fort Piller and the rebellion is ruined. It is too weak to endure the infamy of such a triumph, nor is there any civilized people which will not turn with aversion from a despotism which in the frenzy of failure turns war into butchery, and permits its soldiers to murder their prisoners.

FOR IDAHO. On Wednesday last, the Messrs. S. P. and R. Laird, Olmsted Dunn, Northfoss, and Titman, left town in the gold fields of Idaho.—Broadhead Independent.

Words for Poor Boys.

When I was a boy of twelve years, I was working for twenty-five cents a week, with an old lady, and had my hands full, but I did my work faithfully. I used to cut wood, fetch water, make fires, scrub the floor, and the morning for the old lady, before the real work of the day commenced. My clothes were bad, and I had no means of buying shoes, so I was often barefooted. One morning I got through my work early, and the old lady, who thought I had not done it, or was especially ill-humored, and was displeased, scolded me, and said I was idle, and had not worked. I said I had, she called me a liar. I felt my spirit rising indignantly against this, and standing erect, I told her that she should never have the chance of applying that word to me again. I walked out of the house, to re-enter it no more. I had not a cent in my pocket when I stepped into the world. What do you think I did then, boys? I met a countryman, with a team. I addressed him boldly and earnestly, and offered to drive the team, if he would only take me on. He looked at me in surprise, but said he did not think I'd be of any use to him. "O yes, I will," said I, "I can rub down and wash your horses, and do many things for you, if you will only let me try." He no longer objected. I got on the horse's back. It was hard, traveling, for the roads were deep, and we could only get on at the rate of twelve miles per day. This was however, my starting point. I went ahead after this. An independent spirit, and a steady, honest conduct, with what capacity God has given me—as he has given you—have carried me successfully through the world.

Don't be down-hearted by being poor, and having no friends. Try and try again. You can cut your way through, if you live, so please God. I know it's a hard time for some of you. You are often hungry and wet with the rain or snow, and it seems dreary to have no one in the city to care for you. But trust in Christ and he will be your friend. Keep up good heart, and be determined to make your way honestly and truly through the world. As I said I feel for you, because I have gone through it all—I know what it is: God bless you.—General Mitchell.

MILITARY OF SOUTHERN TREASON.

There are some people who still affect to believe that the rebels are "willing, if they have done wrong, to be forgiven." The "Copperheads" are always asserting that "fraternal war" can be stopped by negotiation with the leaders. We extract from the Richmond Dispatch of the 19th ult., the following difficulties in the way of reconstruction, on any basis that Peace Democrats may propose:

"No one, however knows better than Abraham Lincoln that any terms to might offer the Southern people, which contain the offer of their restoration to his bloody and brutal government, would be rejected with scorn and execration. If, instead of devoting to death our President and military and civil officers, he had proposed to make Jeff. Davis his successor, Lee Commander-in-Chief of the Yankee armies, and our domestic institution not only recognized at home, but readopted in the free States, provided the South would once more enter the Yankee Union, there is not a man, woman or child in the Confederacy who would not spit upon the proposition. We desire no companionship, upon any terms, with a nation of robbers and murderers. The mercenaries, whose atrocities in this war have caused the whole civilized world to shudder, must keep henceforth their distance. They shall not be our masters, and we would not have them for our slaves."

INSURE WITH THE MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY OF WISCONSIN.—

IT IS THE BEST COMPANY FOR WESTERN MEN!—The reasons why this is the best company, are: That it is a Western Company, made up of and managed by Western men, doing all or nearly all its business in the Northwest, and concentrating in this one Company a superior class of risks, mostly of young men, or men in the prime of life, and they selected with as great care in regard to eligibility to Life Insurance, as are the risks of any other company.

It is true that the Company has neither the age nor the accumulations of some eastern companies, but is gaining the latter very fast; is vigorous for one of its age; is doing a large business, having issued 637 policies in the months of December and January just passed, and is doing its business as economically as the same can be done anywhere. It has for its guide, the experience of all older companies, and among its managers some of the best business men in the northwest.

This is the first successful effort ever made to build up a similar institution in the West, and it should be the pride, as it certainly is the interest, of every business man in this section of the State, to identify himself with its growth.

This Company issues non-forfeiting policies, upon which premiums are paid in five or ten annual payments. These non-forfeiting policies are very desirable, as they guarantee to the policy holder the benefit of all the money that he pays into the Company, and also enable him to pay his premiums for the whole of life while he is young, or at an early period, thus relieving him from the burden of payment in old age. Insurance upon this plan, (as well as on all other policies that this Company issues) becomes due and payable at death, should death occur before the ten years expire.

It also issues the endowment policy which becomes due and payable to the party assured at a stated age specified. These latter policies are becoming quite popular, and are particularly desirable for young men.

COLGATE'S HONEY SOAP.

This celebrated Toilet Soap, in such universal demand, is made from the choicest materials, is mild and emollient in its nature, fragrant, scented, and extremely beneficial in its action upon the skin. For sale by all Druggists and Fancy Goods Dealers.

COUGHS AND COLDS.

The sudden changes of our climate are sources of PNEUMONIA, BRONCHITIS, and ASTHMA. Experience having proved that simple remedies often act speedily when taken in the early stages of the disease, we should at once have recourse to Brown's Cherry Broth, or Lozenges, let the Cold, Cough, or Tracheitis of the Throat be as slight as, as by this preparation a more serious attack will be effectively warded off. PLEURISY and FEVERS will find them effectual for clearing and strengthening the voice. Soldiers should have them, as they can be carried in the pocket and taken on occasion requires.

HAGAN'S MAGNOLIA BALM.

This is the most delightful and extraordinary article ever discovered. It changes the skin-buried face and hands to a purely satin texture of ravishing beauty, imparting the marble purity of youth and the glowing appearance so inviting in the city belle of fashion. It removes tan, freckles, pimples, and roughness from the skin, leaving the complexion fresh, transparent and smooth. It contains no material injurious to the skin. Patronized by Actresses and Opera Singers. It is what every lady should have. Sold everywhere.

HAIR DYE! HAIR DYE!

BARNES' CELEBRATED HAIR DYE is the best in the world. The only Hair Dye, True and Reliable Dye known. This splendid Hair Dye is perfect—changes Red, Rusty, or Grey Hair, instantly to a Glossy Black or Natural Brown, without injuring the hair or staining the skin, leaving the hair soft and beautiful, imparts fresh vitality, frequently restoring its pristine color, and recovers the full effects of the dye. The genuine is signed H. B. BARNES & CO., and all other imitations, and should be avoided. Sold by all Druggists, &c. Factory—51 BATTERY ST., N. Y. BARNES' NEW TOILET CHAMBER FOR DRESSING THE HAIR.

HELMSTREET'S INIMITABLE HAIR RESTORATIVE.

It is not a DYE, but restores gray hair to its original color, by supplying the capillary tubes with natural sustenance impaired by age or disease. All instantaneous dyes are composed of lunar caustic, destroying the vitality and beauty of the hair, and afford of themselves no dressing. Helmstreet's Inimitable Coloring not only restores hair to its natural color by an easy process, but gives the hair its luxuriant beauty, promotes its growth, prevents its falling off, softens and renders it pliant, and imparts health and pleasure to the head. It has stood the test of time, being the original hair coloring, and is constantly increasing in favor. Used by both gentlemen and ladies. It is sold by all respectable dealers, or can be procured by them of the commercial agents, D. S. BARNES & CO., 22 Broadway, New York. Two sizes, 50 cents and $1.

WYNKOOP'S ICELAND PECTORAL.

Diseases of the Throat, Chest, and Pulmonary Organs are over prevalent, insidious and dangerous. The properties of a medicine to alleviate, cure, and uproot these complaints, must be expectorant, anodyne and invigorating, loosening the mucus of the throat, and imparting tone to the entire system. No discovery in medical science ever merited this class of diseases like Dr. Wynkoop's Iceland Pectoral. It is used with the most astonishing results in all cases of Bronchitis, Indurated, Whooping Cough, Diphtheria or Purulent Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, Croup, Croup, Nervous Irritability, &c.

The Rev. J. J. POTTER certifies—"that I have used Dr. Wynkoop's Pectoral for several years, myself and in my family, for severe pulmonary complaints, and have recommended it to many others, and have never seen its equal."

It is composed of pure Iceland Moss, Balm of Gilead, Paraffin, Balsam, Clove, Camphor, Bitterroot, and other valuable expectorant and tonic ingredients. It is harmless, prompt and lasting. Invalids and others cannot afford to neglect a trial. Every family should have it. It is remarkable for Croup. Full descriptions, recommendations and directions accompany each bottle.

Sold by all the principal Druggists. Prepared by Dr. R. D. WYNKOOP, and sold by D. S. BARNES & CO., New York.
